Gettysburg faces the loss of the large part of its multi-million dollar tourist industry and relegation to location on a secondary highway, with the accompanying loss of huge sums of money in equities in business, farm and residential properties, if the Pennsylvania toll turnpike is extended to Philadelphia.

This was the consensus of leaders in business and travel circles over the announcement that studies of routes extending the toll road are authorized to be made by the Pennsylvania Turnpike commission.

Gettysburg and Adams county will lose hundreds of thousands of dollars in the aggregate and the likelihood that it will be the hub of a series of modern constructed highways is reduced to nil. Engineers who made the original survey of the extension of the route to Philadelphia state that to be profitable, the route must have a 50 per cent subsidy plus the assurance that no parallel free routes will be built or modernized so as to provide competition to the toll road.

The proposed toll road, local observers point out, will channel annually Pennsylvania's $500,000,000 tourist and travel business through the Commonwealth on a monopolistic toll road, between wire fences, into the resorts of New Jersey, New York and the New England states.

TELLS CHAMBER ABOUT REMOVAL OF RADIO STATIC

Reports of progress on the part of the Metropolitan Edison company in its search for the cause of poor radio reception in Gettysburg were presented Monday evening to the directors of the local chamber of commerce meeting at the chamber offices on Baltimore street.

Manager C. O. Lenhart, of the electric company, reported that his organization has been searching for electrical causes of radio disturbance since Christmas and that "about a dozen" static causes had been discovered so far. The owners of the equipment causing the static have promised to have the matter attended to so that the machines or lights will not interfere with radio, Lenhart said.

He also added that additional static producing equipment is probably in the community and that his staff is continuing its search. Some householders may have defective lights or wires that may cause such static, he added, and suggested that householders check their own electrical equipment and wiring.

METERS WILL OPERATE UNDER STANDARD TIME

Schools, churches, the courts and court house and business places and facilities in Gettysburg operate on Daylight Saving time, but the town's parking meters are going to be on Standard time.

The reason for this is, according to the borough council, which adopted a resolution at its regular May meeting Monday night fixing Standard time for the meters, that although almost everything else is on fast time, the town itself, meaning the town government, has not changed its clocks.

The borough council was informed by Borough Solicitor Eugene V. Bulleit at its last meeting, in April, that a state law prohibited the borough from changing its time, so the consensus of opinion Monday night when the meter question was brought up was: "What else can we do?"

The council authorized Borough Engineer LeRoy H. Winebrenner to have new cards printed and inserted on the face of the meters with the hours and words "Standard Time." The action will become effective Monday, May 12.

Firemen Ask Alterations

The operation of the meters on Standard time will give parkers an hour longer each morning before they have to drop their coins in the slots, but the borough will collect for an hour longer parking in the evenings.

Council referred to the property committee and Engineer Winebrenner.

TRAINS CARRY FREIGHT BULK, ROTARY HEARS

"The railroads carry 90 per cent of all freight tonnage that moves on wheels," J. R. Tenney, Hagers-town superintendent of safety for the Western Maryland railway company, told the local Rotary club Monday evening at its regular meeting at the YWCA.

"For that reason alone one cannot count the old iron horse out of the transportation picture," he added, "it will be with us for a long time to come."

At the present, trucks handle 4.7 per cent of all freight tonnage moved, the pipe lines handle 12.4 per cent of the total and the railroads 66.9 per cent of all tonnage. Taking the pipelines and ship traffic out of the picture, 90 per cent of the remaining tonnage is handled by the railroads, he said.

NATIONAL PARK OFFICIALS HERE FOR SESSIONS

Recent trends and problems of historical conservation in the United States were the topic for discussion at this morning's session of the four-day meeting here of National Park officials from region one.

Forty-five members of park staffs along the eastern seaboard gathered here Monday for the opening meeting of the convention held in the Hotel Gettysburg.

Most of the discussion Monday centered around better methods of handling visitors to the various areas. While most of the men attending were convinced that the best way was through the use of guides, only one of the parks represented, Gettysburg, has a guide force such as used here.

Explanatory devices and trail-side exhibits were outlined as the best answer for the non-guided parks and even such guided parks as Gettysburg can benefit by trail-side exhibits, it was pointed out.

First Session Here

As an example of such trail-side exhibits, park officials pointed out, present plans call for a picture of Spangler's Spring showing it as it was at the time of the battle to be erected at the spring so that tourists being guided over the field may see at one glance the scene as it was during the war and as it is today.

Ronald P. Lee, Washington, D. C., chief historian for the National Parks, presided at Monday's session and pointed out in his introductory remarks that while the annual meetings are usually held at Washington or Richmond the group decided to meet this year at Gettysburg to permit the various historians, superintendents and other park officials to see how problems are handled here.

This afternoon the group is to visit the National Museum to view an illustrated lecture by an electrical map, Joseph L. Rosensteel is to give the lecture. After that they will return to the hotel for further discussion on the uses of such maps.

Simmons Case Expected To Reach Jurors Late Today

The Commonwealth this afternoon asked the Humpert jury to put aside any appeals to their sympathy and see that justice is done in considering the evidence presented in the trial of Ray H. Simmons.

Special Assistant District Attorney Daniel E. Teeter, summing up for the prosecution, said that "the Commonwealth does not wish to kill anyone. It did not wish to be involved in the death of Herbert Humpert but it does want to see that justice is done."

"You must put aside any appeals for mercy and you should carefully sift from your mind anything that is immaterial or anything that is just argument," he added.

The trial of Ray H. Simmons, 23, of Mechanicsburg R. 1, on a charge of murder for the death of Herbert L. Humpert, 70-year-old Tyrone township farmer on the night of March 24, neared its conclusion this afternoon.

The taking of testimony, cross-examination of witnesses and rebuttal testimony was completed shortly after court opened this morning. Defense Attorney Thomas D. Caldwell, of Harrisburg, opened his summation to the jury at 9:43 a. m. Except for a ten-minute recess shortly before 11 o'clock, Caldwell talked for one hour and 54 minutes.

He was finished at 11:37 o'clock, and court then recessed to 1 o'clock so that the Commonwealth summation would not be interrupted by the noon recess.

Special Assistant District Attorney Daniel E. Teeter began his summation of the Commonwealth's case after court re-convened. The State earlier in the trial had asked conviction of first degree murder with the death penalty. If Teeter uses approximately the same time as was consumed by Caldwell, this, plus Judge Sheely's charge to the jury, was expected to bring the case actually into the jury's hands at a late hour this afternoon.

Says Simmons Was Drunk

The defense, in its summation, asked the jury to be sure, "beyond any reasonable doubt," that the Commonwealth had proved that Simmons killed the Gardners R. D. farmer, and then went on to assert that the prosecution had failed to show that this was the case, and to point out that Humpert might have met his death, either accidentally, through a fall in the barn, or at the hands of a person or persons unknown.

Caldwell also reviewed testimony he said showed that Simmons, on the night of March 24, was "too drunk" to remember, did not remember, but related in his statements what had been told him by Robert L. Staley, who was indicted with him.

He declared that Simmons was "one of the tragic examples of war, who learned to drink in the army," who was discharged from the Marine Corps as "totally unfit for further service," due to his mental condition. In reviewing the testimony of Dr. Hamblen C. Eaton, Harrisburg state hospital, Caldwell said Simmons' lack of memory was due to his drinking and his inability to "take the stress and strains of daily life."

Dealing With Death

"We are dealing here today with a very serious thing—death," Attorney Caldwell told the jury. "It is easy to talk about the death penalty, but you are being asked to vote to kill this 23-year-old boy."

The defense counsel pointed out that Simmons was tried, not for assault and battery, aggravated assault (Please Turn to Page Two)

BYRD IS PLEASED BY BUDGET CUTS

Washington, May 6 (AP)—Economy advocates rode firmly in the Senate saddle today with a precedent-breaking vote to slash labor department federal security agency funds bobbing along behind them.

For the first time in more than a decade, the Senate voted yesterday to cut deeper than the House in approving a $1,676,198,000 appropriations measure for the two bureaus. The figure was $8,388,000 less than the lawmakers across the Capitol had allowed and $100,000,000 below President Truman's budget estimate.

Senator Byrd (D-Va.) who has been preaching economy for years, told a reporter he was gratified. "It's the first time in 14 years that the senate has shown any disposition to cut government spending," he declared. "I think it means that we are going to have some real economy in this Congress."

Byrd said no one can guess yet whether the Republican goal of trimming from $4,500,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 of President Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget for the year beginning July 1 will be reached. He said the final tally will depend on what, if any, reductions are voted for the armed services.

With the $163,000,000 cut recommended yesterday by the house appropriations committee for the state, commerce and justice departments and the federal courts, the budget trimming now stands at about $1,140,000,000.

Army, Navy and Veterans Administration supply bills are yet to be written.

The charge was placed before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehor.

Beharry, according to Officer Culp's report on the crash, halted at the stop sign on North Washington street and then pulled out into the path of Carey's car which was proceeding on Lincoln avenue. Carey suffered a bruised right knee in the crash. Damage to the cars was estimated at $300.

Alvin Blymire, York, has been charged by local state police before a county justice of the peace with failing to yield his identity upon hitting unattended property. Clyde A. Smith, New Oxford, has been charged by state police before a county justice with failing to stop at a stop sign.

Simmons Case

sault, or for robbery, but for the death of Humpert.

"The principal point, and the only point," Caldwell continued, "is how Mr. Humpert came to his death. The Commonwealth has proved only that this old gentleman was found dead at approximately 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Only two persons could know what happened—Simmons and Staley. Simmons says he does not remember. Staley has not been called. Any number of persons could have come to that farm between Monday afternoon and Wednesday afternoon. . . . The state's testimony stops at the point where Humpert was sitting in the barnyard, holding his head."

Asks Acquittal

The defense attorney argued that Humpert could have gone to the barn to throw down some hay for his stock early on Tuesday morning, and fallen through the hay hole, or he could have tumbled down the adjacent steps. He pointed out that Humpert's glasses were not on him, but lying on the ground outside.

In concluding, he declared that there were "too many gaps" in the state's evidence, and "too many possibilities" that Humpert had died of a fall or by some other means, to justify a conscientious verdict of guilty, and asked that the prisoner be acquitted and returned to his family.

Hear Medical Reports

The defendant was re-called to the stand Monday afternoon, and was followed by his father, Samuel M. Simmons, 60, who has a farm near Mechanicsburg; the defendant's ex-wife, Mrs. Beverly Simmons, Marysville, Pa., and his mother.

A series of medical reports of the United States Marine Corps in which Simmons served about a year, and the testimony of Dr. Hamblen C. Eaton, clinical director at the Harrisburg state hospital, occupied a large part of the afternoon.

Simmons, the records showed, received an honorable discharge from the Marine Corps, because of "constitutional psychopathic state, psychoneurosis anxiety and inadequate personality," and these, the report continued, were "not incurred in line of duty, existed prior to service, not due to misconduct, and not aggravated by service."

"Violent Temper"

More specifically, the reports claimed, that Simmons "would break up completely under combat conditions," and that "noise and excitement stir him; that he quit school because of a violent temper; has nightmares, his judgment is poor and insight lacking." The Marine Corps reports said he was "not considered to become a menace to himself or others," however.

Dr. Eaton described Simmons very much as he was classified in the service, and declared that in his opinion he was in the "twilight between normalcy and mental disorder."

His diagnosis, he said, led him to the opinion that use of alcohol produced "mental aberration." He said he examined Simmons at the Dauphin county jail on April 25 and 27, and talked with his parents.

No Combat Service

Simmons said he had never seen combat service. Records of a burglary in Elizabethtown and two robberies in Harrisburg were read into the record again, State Policeman Joseph F. Salinger, Harrisburg, identifying a confession signed by Simmons in connection with the Elizabethtown case. Simmons admitted his signature.

He reiterated during the afternoon what he had told in the morning, that he knew nothing of what happened at the Humpert farm, and said that: "Bob told me the whole story. He referred to Robert Staley, who was indicted with him for the Humpert murder."

"Nobody told me the actual words" in the statements he gave Yake and Mrs. Annabelle Little, court stenographer, he said. "Bob told me the story and I put it together in my own words. I told them I hit him with the hammer simply because Bob told me that I hit him," he said. "What I testified to you is what I picked up from Bob."

Admits Having Breakfast

Simmons then said he told the story at the Humpert farm the day after his arrest because he had gone 38 hours without food and six to eight hours without water. "They did that to me, you don't know what they are going to do next," he said.

He admitted on cross examination, however, that he was given breakfast before being taken to the Humpert farm April 2.

"Isn't it true that after you fellows finished off Humpert and got the money, you went to where Humpert lay and put the feed bags under him and carried him into the feed entry?" Yake questioned. "I don't know, because I don't know whether I was there or not," Simmons replied.

Doctor Testifies

Yake read these words from Simmons' statement made April 12: "I want what is coming to me, but if I had been sober I wouldn't have did it."

"Did you tell us that?" Yake asked.

"Yes, I said that," was the reply.

Simmons and his father, mother and ex-wife all testified that there had been times when Simmons could not remember things he had done. They said he sidestepped another automobile in Harrisburg; "took a pass at my wife" at their home in Mechanicsburg, and "black-ed out" during the night and gave

FUGITIVE FREE, RENEW DEMANDS

Pittsburgh, May 6 (AP)—W. H. Bucksburg, alias W. H. Dern, was still a free man in Pennsylvania today, but the state of Ohio was insistently demanding his return to serve out a quarter-century-old prison term.

Judge Thomas P. Marshall of the Allegheny County Common Pleas Court last week turned down an Ohio request for Bucksburg's extradition.

The record showed, Judge Marshall said, that the 46-year-old carpenter had led an exemplary life since he walked away from a juvenile home in Columbus in 1923. He had been committed for a minor theft.

If Judge Marshall's ruling went unchallenged, Bucksburg would be a free man as long as he remained in Pennsylvania and continued to live the life of a good citizen.

But Ohio, whose officials say he never forgives her fugitives from justice, did not let the ruling stand.

Yesterday, Artemas C. Leslie, Allegheny county district attorney, ordered an appeal from Judge Marshall's ruling carried to the Pennsylvania Supreme Court of Appeals. Leslie said the action was requested by the Ohio governor's office.

Truman Asks Fire Losses Be Reduced

Washington, May 6 (AP)—President Truman asked the nation today to organize its defenses against fire on a country-wide basis in an effort to avoid such spectacular disaster as the recent blast and blaze in Texas City.

Unless the present fire rate can be reduced, Mr. Truman said, the loss in this country for 1947 alone will be more than $750,000,000.

"The concerted effort of all our people is needed," he said at the first national fire prevention conference. "In order to make effective the known methods of preventing fire, and preventing large losses where fire occurs."

Mr. Truman's speech formally launched the deliberations of the three day conference.

Change In British Industry Advancing

London, May 6 (AP)—The Labor government's drive to nationalize Britain's key industries neared its final goal today with approval by the House of Commons of a measure to bring under public ownership all inland transport—railroads, buses, trucks, subways, street cars and canals.

The bill now goes to the House of Lords, where heated opposition by the overwhelming conservative majority is expected, but rejection of the measure by the upper house would force a constitutional crisis which might further restrict the already limited powers of the lords.

"If the House of Lords attempt to frustrate the bill," Aneurin Bevan, Laborite Minister of Health, declared, "we shall set their resistance aside. Seeking for myself only, I would set the House of Lords aside anyway."

Rain Postpones Interstate Card
(By The Associated Press)
Trenton and Hagerstown will be out tonight to put an end to the perfect slates of Harrisburg and Lancaster in the infant 1947 interstate league season.

Rain postponed the entire card yesterday.

The surprising feature of the first week of play has been the terrific power of batsmen for the Harrisburg Senators and Lancaster Red Roses.

In pre-season dopesheets, the Senators were figured to be tough for they closed with a rush last year and went on to whip Wilmington in the Shaugnessy playoffs.

But the Red Roses were strictly an unknown quantity. There has been a major shakeup at Lancaster since the Roses ended up in the loop cellar a year ago. There is a new manager and a flock of new faces in the makeup of the Philadelphia Athletics' farm club.

Lancaster will play at Hagerstown, victories in one of four contests, while Harrisburg journeys to unvictorious Trenton. In other games, York plays at Allentown and Sunbury at Allentown.

Veteran Hemsley Is Given Release
Philadelphia, May 6 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies have given 40-year-old Rollie Hemsley an unconditional release and farmed out rookie pitcher Dick Koehler and Lou Possel.

Hemsley, a veteran of 19 years as a major league catcher, asked for his release stating he had received offers from two other clubs.

The veteran backstop said he wanted to play regularly and that he apparently had little chance of replacing young Andy Seminick or Don Padgett. Hemsley appeared in only two games this season.

Koehler and Possel were sent to the Phils' class A farm at Utica, N. Y., in the eastern league. Koehler lost his only start this season to the Boston Braves. Possel, a Chicago sandlot product, had no decisions but pitched scoreless ball for three and a third innings his last time out.

The Los Angeles batter met Sugar Ray Robinson for the latter's welterweight crown at Cleveland May 30.

Triangular Meet Here On Wednesday
The Gettysburg college track team will engage in its final home meet of the season Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock when Bucknell and Juniata will come here for a triangular meet.

Coach Leroy Bloomingdale's cindermen will be gunning for their first victory after having finished third in a triangular meet with Lehigh and Muhlenberg on April 19, and second in another triangular affair on Saturday with Haverford and John Hopkins at Baltimore.

DIXIE WALKER HAS .425 MARK

New York, May 6 (AP)—Dixie Walker of Brooklyn, a dependable swatter with a fine .439 spring average, and Pat Mullin of Detroit, whose .425 mark indicates a return to his pre-war form after a dreary 1946 season, top the major leagues in batting after three weeks of play.

The 36-year-old Walker, who was supposed to have a tough time fighting off younger aspirants for his right field job, has collected four doubles in his 18 hits and has driven in 13 runs, only one less than New York's Johnny Mize, the National league leader.

Thirteen points behind Dixie in the average columns comes Pittsburgh's Frank Glines, a much-improved ball player at .426 with Tommy Holmes of Boston, rounding out the 400 club at .404. Bob Elliott of Boston, .377 and Bill Rigney of New York, .375 are others in the first five.

Johnny Hopp of Boston and Willard Marshall of New York are tied for sixth at .314 followed in order by Pete Reiser of Brooklyn, .324 and Augie Galan of Cincinnati and Phil Cavaretta of Chicago, each at .321.

Buddy Lewis Second
Mullin enjoys a six-point margin in the American league over Washington's Buddy Lewis who is hitting .419, just two degrees higher than the surprising .417 mark owned by sophomore Bob Dillinger of the St. Louis Browns. Luke Appling of Chicago is fourth with a robust .396 figure followed by George (Bingo) Binks' .388. Binks was traded by Washington to Philadelphia during spring training.

George McQuinn, a Philadelphia castoff who is making good with the New York Yankees, is batting .340 and Sam Mele, Boston's promising Rookie outfielder, has a .328 average. Hook Evers of Detroit and Hal Peck of Cleveland are tied for eighth at .327 with Ted Williams of Boston holding down tenth place with .320.

Writes League Heads
The Camden mayor wrote letters to Ford Frick, national league president, and Will Harridge, American league head, declaring, "we have ample facilities for handling the crowds, ideally situated land and we have no wage tax, no sales tax, luxury tax, income tax or any other such special punitive tax."

Marshall, commenting on Brunner's action, pointed out that he was "in no position" to declare the big leagues exempt from a tax approved by the courts and enacted by the city council.

But all concerned could have saved a lot of energy had they known big league by-laws. As officials of the Phillies and Athletics informed the municipal executives, both clubs have franchises which compel them to play their home games in Philadelphia.

CORCORAN AND METZ MAKE UP
Chicago, May 6 (AP)—The Dick Metz-Fred Corcoran feud had officially ended today after a three-hour hearing of their altercation by the executive committee of the Professional Golfers' Association of America had been climaxed by a hand shake.

Ed Dudley, PGA president, said the two clasped hands following a closed session of professional golf's governing body yesterday. The hearing was called at Metz's request after Corcoran asserted the golfer hit him four months ago without even yelling "fore." Metz, one of the country's top-ranking golfers, said he did not strike down the PGA tournament bureau manager with a foul blow and asked for the hearing to have the facts straightened out.

What went on at the hearing was kept a family secret by the PGA. In addition to announcing that the two "shook hands," Dudley said Corcoran will assume new duties as publicity director for all activities of the association.

The horseback and bicycle riding party took a ten mile ride to the country on Friday evening. On their return they were entertained by Mrs. Walter H. O'Neal, who furnished supper for the party which numbered 46. The next ride will be on the 14th inst., to some neighboring town.

Large audiences witnessed the execution of the programs rendered by the pupils of the public schools on Friday afternoon. The various children that took part in the exercises made a very creditable impression upon the audience. Nothing interests the children and teachers more than the occasional presence of the parents who ought to show their interest in this way, and encourage their efforts of the scholars in the pursuit of knowledge.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Courtesy Capital

Coming into Florence, S. C., recently, I discovered that something was the matter with my car and so drove into a gas station. It could have been any station, but this particular one happened to be an Esso. A young man pleasantly asked what he could do for me. And immediately his helpers responded.

It was raining and the trouble had to be carried into another day. We found a comfortable cabin a few miles out, and the young man at the station gladly volunteered to take us to and from the place until the car was set right. I learned that he had only recently purchased the station with his brothers, and that he had returned to his home town after four long years of soldiering in Europe.

I noted that his rest rooms were spotless, and he had a smile for every client. It was easy to see that his greatest capital was being invested in courtesy — that invisible something that is the substance of both success and increasing dividends. Such a place is bound to attract increasing trade.

Anyone can start a business on comparatively little money, so long as that business has a useful service to offer, or a useful product to sell, but there is no asset quite so important as Courtesy—for you can draw upon it without limit. In all stores there are certain clerks that people insist shall serve them, because of their Courtesy and interest.

There was once a traffic officer in New York that thousands of people knew by name—Charlie Miller—who was stationed at 40th street and 5th avenue. Dozens of times I have seen him stop traffic to help an old lady or man across, who started before the light turned, but in not enough time to make the grade. And he always had a friendly greeting for everyone. He was greatly beloved. He was rich in Courtesy. But he was hit one day, and never recovered from his injuries.

No business can long endure without this Courtesy capital in good measure. It is a prime essential. A person is in a serious mood when he asks for service, or seeks to buy something. Honest and sincere Courtesy is usually the deciding factor on the part of the customer. And it is so easy to give it!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Roadways."

Just Folk's

By EDGAR A. GUEST
The Poet of the People

THE DISCONTENTED MAN
He wanted something more from life

Than home and a devoted wife,
A patch of lawn, a garden small,
And now and then good friends to call.

Disdaining these, his years were spent
In bitterness and discontent.

He fancied fortune ought to come
To him in one tremendous sum.
He thought the pleasures, song and dance

Were products of some lucky chance
And not by faith and courage earned,
And so to hating life he turned.

And yet, the home with love aglow
Surpasses all the years bestow;
The pride of guarding children, small

From evil ways is best of all.
In these lies every man's success;
And failing these, is bitterness.

Turnpike Extension Threatens Gettysburg Tourist Business

Extension Of

reality today with the authorization of a survey for the project.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike commission announced it has engaged Roger G. Stone, who served as chief engineer in locating the existing 150-mile turnpike route, to represent the commission in making the survey for eastern extension of about 100 miles.

The four-lane express highway, with tunnels through seven mountain ridges, now connects Middlesex, near Harrisburg, and Irwin, near Pittsburgh. The toll road was constructed in 1938 at a cost of $70,000,000, financed by a federal grant and public bond issue.

Cost Not Announced
Stone has been instructed to survey several lines for the Philadelphia extension and submit them to the commission for its action and also by Gov. James H. Duff and Ray F. Smock, state highways secretary and an ex-officio member of the commission.

The latest move for consideration of a Philadelphia extension to the turnpike followed a speech by Duff that better highway connections are needed between the commonwealth's two metropolitan areas of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

The legislature has approved turnpike extensions both eastward to Philadelphia and westward to the Ohio or West Virginia state line.

When routes for the Philadelphia link have been established and approved, the commonwealth said "then it will be necessary for the commission to work out a plan of financing for the completion of the road."

The cost of the survey was not announced by the Turnpike commission.

SAYS RUSSIANS

the British army and from his travels to various places in the world including Russia during his long service as an American army officer. Fellers delivered an hour long talk and then answered questions for another 15 minutes.

Little People Need Aid
During his talk he drew a word picture of a world in revolution in which the "little people" of the world, those who have been in slavery and those who still are, are seeking for something better—"and we must provide it, or Russia will provide it."

Communism he described as having a strong hold on the Russian people and outlined why, historically, the Russians should feel that Communism is the best system in the world. "Under the czars they reached such a low that anything would be better," Fellers pointed out. He described the conditions of the Russian peasant, "a slave to the land and the Russian factory worker, living 20 to 30 in a room under the czar. With no rights, no hope, little better than an animal, the Russian has reached such a state under the czars that communism was to seem like a heaven to the Russian." In addition the rulers of the communist state have been careful to liquidate anyone who thought otherwise, he added.

"Religious Fanatics"
To the true communist "communism is a religion," Fellers pointed out "and the imperialist communist is making use of the true communist just as the Spanish priest made use of the Spanish priests. The priests of Spain went forth with true religious zeal to convert the savage peoples to Christianity, and the Spanish adventurers followed them and enslaved the people. Today, the true communist is a religious fanatic. That is the only way you can describe it. They have the fervor of the apostles. They go to a country not to add that country to Russia, but to spread the gospel of communism. The imperialist communist then uses that as an excuse to expand the USSR."

"The greatest thing the United States ever did was to give the Philippines independence. That electrified the Orient. It is the first hope the people of the Orient have had, and all of the Orient seeks freedom. The Dutch have permitted partial home rule already in their sections of the east and the French have fought to hold Indo-China. England is trying to give India her freedom."

Stress U. S. Success

"Historically these hopes of the peoples of the east for freedom are part of the world wide social revolution that has been going on for the past century. On top of that social revolution we have superimposed two World Wars. It is because of

REBEL LOSSES HEAVY

Paris, May 6 (P)—Reports of heavy rebel losses during sharp week-end fighting between French and insurgent forces on the island of Madagascar reached here today a few hours after the French cabinet had voted to send fresh troops to quell the month-old revolt.

"The Russians are smart. They have greatly enlarged their embassies throughout the world. They go to the dissatisfied and tell them that in Russia there is no race, no creed, no color barriers. And they are right, up to a point. To combat that we must be able to prove to the world that we have a better form of economics and government capable of giving more to more people than the Russians."

of the railroad man was constantly in danger. A person sending a carload of freight from one section of the country to another had no definite assurance it would ever arrive. But the railroads have been constantly experimenting with better and safer methods, the use of better and safer materials and as a result the number of wrecks and the number of deaths has constantly declined, despite the fact that many accidents still occur and much still remains to be done in the line of safety work and experimentation in the use of new materials and new techniques. In comparison with other forms of travel however, and in comparison with its own record in the past, the railroads have performed a tremendous job in giving better service, more safely and quicker," Tenney said. He said that while he had no report on several recent well-publicized wrecks as yet, he imagined many of the recent wrecks are caused by equipment that "has just worn out after the long hard years of the war."

Introduced By Myers
That condition, he said, will probably soon be remedied with the manufacturers of railroad equipment now turning out cars and engines at top speed.

During World War II, the railroads carried twice the tonnage in freight with 25 per cent fewer cars and 33 per cent fewer engines than used during World War I, Tenney said. The reason for the improvement was to be found in regional shipping boards set up after World War I, he added. The shipping boards, made up of representatives of the principal shippers and railroad men, meet every three months to forecast the needs of the shippers for freight cars during the coming three months. So expert have the shipping boards become in their estimates, Tenney said, that frequently the actual total of cars used is within one per cent of the estimates made by the boards.

The speaker was introduced by Charles W. Myers, a member of the local club and Western Maryland railway agent here who is the oldest employee of the railroad.

Fifty-nine members and guests attended the session at which President Dr. Chester N. Gitt presided. The group stood in silence a moment in memory of past president and board member Walter T. Africa who died Sunday of a heart attack.

within the past two weeks letters had been mailed to the parents of the high school children asking their advice on raising enough money to start and complete the new athletic field in the rear of the school which has been the topic of much concern for several months. The president stated that to date only 11 of these letters had been answered and some cash donations had been received. Prof. Sterbinsky, a guest at the meeting, stated that in his opinion he thought this should be a parish obligation and not just an obligation on the parents of the student attending the high school. His suggestion will be considered.

The president read a letter from the students of the school thanking the parents for the dance given them on April 11. A card also was read from Mrs. Arnold, of Taneytown, thanking the association for their expression of sympathy on the death of her mother.

The advisory board of the association will hold a special meeting with the executive board this evening at seven o'clock.

The Parent-Teachers' association will hold a rummage sale on May 17 at the firemen's hall. The next meeting will be held in September.

After the meeting an entertainment was given by the El Club Loyola. They presented a program entitled "A Pan American Fiesta." Miss Ellen Rodgers, of the faculty, assisted at the piano.

FILES INFORMATION
An information against George
Francis Bollinger, 10 South street, Hanover, was laid before Justice of the Peace Howard G. Blocher, Littlestown, Monday afternoon by special Officer E. P. Bigelow, charging Bollinger with failing to stop at a stop-sign at the Littlestown Square. The charge was the result of a collision between the car driven by Bollinger, and one driven by Charles F. McCaffrey, Littlestown, Sunday evening, on the square at Littlestown.

foot ladder and other full equipment,
but it is too high to clear the present doorways at the top. A special meet-changing the doorway are prepared.

John S. Teeter appeared before council to ask reconsideration of the awarding of the contract for stone for the borough streets, but the highway committee recommended that no action be taken, and the contract left as it was awarded a month ago, to the Bethlehem Steel company.
A proposal to purchase a motorcycle and sidecar for the police department was referred back to the safety committee, as was the matter of making application for a change in traffic lights in the borough. Engineer Winebrenner said the borough would have a year in which to make application to the state, have the state make a survey, get bids and delivery and installation of the new lights.

TO PLAN YOUTH PROGRAM
A proposal that Steinhewer avenue extended be widened to a 36-foot roadway was referred to the ordinance committee. Council recently had under consideration the idea of limiting parking to only one side of the street. Winebrenner said the street would eventually become a boulevard, and that property owners had asked for a curb line.
A new roof has been placed on the engine house, it was reported and council authorized the painting of the tin roofs.
Councilmen were notified of a meeting to be held Tuesday evening, May 13, in the Sunday school room of the Methodist church to discuss the teen-canteen, and a general recreation program in Gettysburg. All members were asked to attend.

STATE INCOME TAX STUDIED

Harrisburg, May 6 (P)—The Republican administration is studying the possibility of a statewide income tax within the next four years as a long-range solution to the commonwealth's recurring tax problems, it was learned today.

Such a levy, however, will not be asked of the 1947 legislature, an authoritative source said in pointing out the GOP-dominated assembly is about to enact Gov. James H. Duff's $133,000,000 tax program on luxuries and corporations to finance commonwealth needs in the next biennium only.

Duff is "seriously exploring" the graduated income tax idea, the spokesman said, with the view of establishing a permanent source of income and eliminate the so-called "nuisance taxes."

A clue to the validity of the income tax possibility, he added, is an amendment under study to limit to four years the duration of a bill to permit local municipalities to impose any tax not already levied by the commonwealth.

The governor is supporting the local tax bill in order to provide school districts, for example, with the means of obtaining revenue for increased teachers' salaries but without imposing an additional tax burden on real estate.

men" was sung as a solo by Carmen Lopez, Puerto Rican mezzo-soprano, Jeanne Rankin of Richmond, Va., sang the solo with the choral group in "Russian Picnic."

Miss Budde sang a group of four numbers: "Waltz Song," "La Boheme," "Strictly Germ Proof," and "The Answer." Accompanist for the program was Peggy Goldsmith of Harrisburg.

The Lions club held its dinner-meeting last Monday evening, meeting at the Lutheran parish house. Guests of the evening were Capt. Charles McKee, Military Intelligence Corps Reserve, U. S. Army, and Sgt. Haden, of the U. S. Army. Capt. McKee gave an illustrated talk in order to present the plan for universal military training. Two shorts were shown: "Your Army Today," and "Plan For Peace." The club plans later to have Capt. McKee back to present the talk to the town if a suitable hall can be found. The Boy Scout raffle was held and the prize winners were: First, John Smith, of the Beaudin Shoe company, $25; second, John Douglas of Frederick, Md., $15; third, John Orndorff, Motters Station, $10.
